Cooper Calm As He Awaits Liftoff Set For This Morning

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) -A forecast of cloudy weather-after eight days of perfectionthreatens to delay the attempt by L. Gordon Cooper Jr. for 22 orbits around the earth.

All day long Monday the sentiment was the same: Clouds may make the flight impossible but we're still going ahead with plans for Cooper to take off somewhere between 8 and 10:30 a.m., EST,

At 5:15 p.m. Monday a news conference report said confident-

"Everything is in readiness for the planned launch time of 8:00 a.m., Tuesday."

But the last sentence of the five-paragraph announcement

"Cloudiness at Cape Canaveral continues to be a major concern."
Walter C. Williams, director of operations, said that the first half of the two-day split countdown was completed Monday morning.

The second half of this countdown was to begin at 1 a. m. EST If the doubtful weather both-

The measure was sent to the Senate on a 277 to 53 roll call vote despite the protest of Rep. William Fitts Ryan, D-N.Y., that "no amount of beating" is going to solve the disciplinary problems in the capital's schools.

Ryan, the only member to take the floor in opposition to the measure, said it is incredible that Congress would be called upon to legislate in such a field.

He called the bill "extremely dangerous and also very naive. Ryan said it implies that whipping schoolchildren is a cure-all for social ills that are the results of years of segregation and discrimination against Negroes in Washington.

Rvan said Congress should pass legislation to let the capital govern itself "so that Congress is no longer called upon to pass this kind of foolish nonsense.

The bill would repeal a ban on corporal punishment written into the regulations of the District School Board. Rulings Made By High Court

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Sureme Court suggested Monday that unions save themselves legal headaches by working out cut-rate dues plans for members who object to their union money being used for political purposes.

Specifically, Justice William O. Brennan Jr., speaking for the tri-bunal, singled out railroad brotherhoods which operate under the Railway Labor Act. Most of these have union shops which require workers to join the union after being hired. But Brennan did not exclude other unions from his

The high court took the unusual step of pointing the way when it restated a 1961 decree that a railway worker who objects to any of his dues being used for political purposes may obtain partial refund of his payments.

Brennan, making a sweeping plea for more do-it-yourself solvng of labor union problems, declared: "It is a lesson of our national history of industrial relations that resort to litgation to settle the rights of labor organizations and employes very often proves unsatisfactory.

Also in the labor union field, the court decided unanimously that it is an unfair labor practice for an employer to grant super-seniority to workers hired to replace strikers or to strikers who eturn to work against their nion's wishes.

The ruling, which reversed the U.S. Circuit Court in Philadelphia, upheld a National Labor Relations Board ruling against Erie Resistor Corp., manufacturer of electronics components, in Erie, Pa.

The company gave 20 years' extra seniority credit to some nonstriking workers during a 1959

HANDS THAT HELPED SAVE A LIFE

The operator answered the signal—only to hear the incoherent mumbling of a child.

She and her supervisor listened patiently until they understood that the youngster had burned herself badly. Then, she hung up without giving her name or address.

Holding the line open, the operator called the man on the Test Desk. With another man's help, he traced the number through the Dial Office. An ambulance was quickly sent to the address.

Meanwhile another operator stayed on the line, questioning the child when she came back on. Once she had secured a neighbor's name, the operator called and asked her to go to the child's aid.

Within minutes, help was by the side of the eleven-year-old girl.

That morning, she had missed her school bus and returned to her empty home. Her clothes became ablaze when she backed into the fire she had started in the fireplace.

Teaching Aids Feature Exhibit At Frostburg

FSTC Students Build Display

FROSTBURG - Visual aids to be used in teaching science in the elementary grades were made by the students in the Elementary School Child and His Curriculum course, (Educ. 304), at Frostburg State Teachers College and are on display in Gunter Hall foyer. Dr. Eddie Sage and Homer R. Pankey are the instructors in the ten-hour block program.

"The course places special emphasis upon the study of child development with a view to providing the best methods, materials, and organization of the instructional program for their growth," stated Dr. Sage. "It is an integrated course with the study of children as its unifying

Students enrolled in Education 304 study the various methods for teaching elementary subjects, write original books, prepare visual aids, instruct classes in the Pullen School, and evaluate their own work and those of their classmates with a view to gaining first hand teaching experience before going into the public schools for their required student teaching.

For the past two weeks, emphasis has been placed on important science concepts and aids for teaching the subject in the grades. Among the projects made by the students in Mr. Pankey's class are: an animal cage, insect cage, and wren house by Lois Allem; weather clock and bird station, Helen Bolinger; terrarium and periscope, Bonita Brendle; a model TV on animal friends and a starfish for use on a flannel board, Judy Castle; model of electric motor wind guage, Margaret Holter.

Other projects are: models of solar system to string across the room and a game on the solar system, Vivian Howe; a model of the ear and a drawing on the story of the seed, Serena Kerr; wind vane and wren house, Pauline Miller; model of water wheel clown to show simple machine, Ann Paoletti; periscope and light demonstration, Katherine Simpson; plastic flower on chart and pictures of animals to form experience chart, Mary Jo Sirnax Original contributors include:

Barnes Suggests New Approach

Appeals to reason and common sense having failed to dissuade people from killing themselves and others with automobiles, New York's traffic commissioner, Henry Barnes, is going to try mass psychology.

It will be Barnes' first task to convince drivers and pedestrians that such personality quirks as hostility and exhibitionism make them do the crazy things they do. Then he must-and this will be harder - persuade them to leave their tensions and emotional conflicts at home instead of airing them on streets and highways.

This new approach to safety education, sensible though it is, seems sure to come in for a spate of ridicule by the thoughtless. But those to whom it doesn't make much sense should be reminded that, the more you think of it, neither does jaywalking nor reckless behavior behind the wheel of a car.

Barnes is the former Baltimore traffic commissioner who once came to Cumberland to offer suggestions on solving this community's traffic

Escalator Is For Macy's

Said Turvy to Topsy: "I think I begin to understand those politicians like Laborite Harold Wilson and Liberal Jo Grimond of Britain who want no part of a 'nuclear deterrent.' It's because they are actually in favor of having more power."

"That's like saying that if you are weaker, you are stronger," said Topsy. "It can't be true. Britannia never ruled the waves by refusing to have any part of

"But I assure you it is true," said Turvy. "I began to see the light the other night when I listened to Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina speak on the evolution of American power since 1947. We've been getting stronger all the time. Once we only had the A-bomb. Later on we got the H-bomb. We can now deliver these in manned airplanes, from Polaris submarines, and by automatic missiles. But the stronger we got, the weaker we got. And it wasn't because the Russians were catching up; actually, we're still way ahead of them in many ways. It's just that the more nuclear power you have, the more paralyzed you become."

"I still don't get it," said Topsy. "You could still knock Morro Castle over by letting an old-fashioned gunboat sidle up to it. Why should we let our having atomic power paralyze us?"

"Haven't you heard of escalation?" asked Turvy. "If we were to send a gunboat to deal with Castro, the war might escalate up the scale. A shell from the gunboat might hit a Russian in Havana. That would make Khrushchev mad. He'd order Castro to send some of his Soviet leaseloaned planes into action. The conventional bombs would do for the moment. But the old-fashioned war would make both Moscow and Washington edgy. Pretty soon they'd be pushing buttons that would send atomic missiles hurtling at each other while Kennedy and Khrushchev simultaneously yelled 'liar' over the hot telephone wire."

"So, because of this escalation," asked Topsy, "we can't even hit Fidel with a powder puff? And for this we spend $50 billion a year on our military establishment?"

"Well, we're going to cure that," said Turvy. "If Senator Thurmond is right, we're about to escalate things in the other direction. We're 'phasing out' our manned bombers, as the saying goes. We're dropping the idea of perfecting an anti-missile missile. We've given up the air-to-ground Skybolt. We're trying to make a fighter plane on the Detroit principle, with the same chassis for the Comet as for the Falcon-oops, I mean an identical fuselage for the Air Force and the Navy. The general idea is that when we've deescalated to the position of a second-class power we can begin throwing our weight around again."

"I begin to see the light," said Topsy. "India can fight Portuguese Goa because only sticks are involved in that kind of war. But if we were to send a single marine to Ruritania, it could knock over all the ninepins including those that are weighted with uranium

"Exactly," said Turvey. "So the ideal is to work backward until you have the armed might of Monaco or Andorra. Then you can afford to be tough and to fight for your rights."

"It still doesn't seem logical," said Topsy. "But I see where one pundit argues that the Monroe Doctrine is only workable when Europe helps the U.S. to enforce it. It is then a three-legged, not a two-legged, stool."

"Like when France helped us enforce the Doctrine by sending Maximilian and Carlotta to Mexico as King and Queen of the Mexicans?" asked Turvy.

"You're out of order," said Topsy. "Now it's you who is asking the world to make sense." "Well," said Turvy, "I own up to a sneaking desire to return to the days of old-fashioned logic. These escalation mongers actually get my goat. It never occurs to them that Khrushchev is just as afraid of escalating Fidel Castro into World War III-or World War Finis—as we are."

"So we could hit Morro Castle with a powder puff, after all," said Topsy.

"It could be easier than that," said Turvy, "Just take away Fidel Castro's oil."

President Kennedy Makes Crack About Lester And Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON-President Kennedy, talking to a group of radio and TV executives recently, got off this crack:

"I know you are interested in the meeting with the new Canadian prime minister, Lester Pearson, at Hyannis Port. This meeting almost didn't come off.

'Serious complications arose when the Canadian ambassador came to see me. Shuffling through some papers on my desk he managed to decipher some rather illegible handwriting and read this marginal notation: 'What will we do with this s.o.b. Pearson? "I had a hard time explaining that this was a paper left over Adam Clayton Powell, the No. 1 Harlem globetrotter, didn't have any trouble getting the House Rules Commttiee to ok his new junket to Europe, May 26 to June 15. to attend the International Labor Organization meeting in Geneva.

In his usual courtly manner, Chairman Howard Smith, D.Va., asked Powell and Rep. Jimmy Roosevelt, D-Calif., whether they would be willing to submit vouchers on the expenses of their trip. "That's only proper," replied

"Of course," said Powell. When Clarence Brown, the Ohio Republican, remarked, "We don't want to be lonely, we've missed you quite a bit around here," he wasn't entirely fooling. For Powell has an interesting attendance record.

He spent a good part of January in Puerto Rico where he owns a beach house, returned to Washington late in January: then went back to Puerto Rico on February 5.

The Congressman from Harlem remained away from Congress most of February, about one half of March, and about one half of April. In fairness it should be noted that Congress marked time during part of February for the GOP Lincoln Day speeches, and part of April for the Easter recess. However, most chairmen of important committess were on hand to push their bills.

As a result of the Farm Bureau's campaign, some of its local bureaus are getting restless and the Webster County Farm Bureau of Guide Rock, Nebraska, has demanded an investigation of reported affiliations between the John Birch Society and the Farm Bureau; whether the American Medical Association contributed to the Farm Bureau in order to get help in defeating the medicare program among farmers; and whether the Farm Bureau really represents the farmers of the

This naturally has had an impact on the political perspective. ## American Women

By John Crosby

PARIS

A couple of months ago. Edward R. Murrow's United States Information Service announced that only 11 per cent of Frenchmen had a favorable opinion of American women. Incredible statistic.

I asked my friend Jacques, a Frenchman, about it: "C'est incroyable!" he murmured. "Eleven per cent. I think Mr. Murrow was perhaps talking to some French-speaking Poles, Or maybe Bulgarians. They are great kidders, the Bulgarians. Eleven per cent of Frenchmen with a favor-

I've been trying to run that 11 per cent to earth myself. Cherchez the 11 per cent, I call this project. No luck. I don't want to find the whole 11 per cent. Just one Frenchman who will admit to having thrown his vote on the side of American womanhood. No

But then, girls — before you go slit your throats — I ought to explain that it's not at all easy to find a Frenchman with a favorable opinion. Ask a Frenchman what he thinks about de Gaulle. Bah! Or ask him what he thinks about the new Franco-German past. You'll get 22 minutes of unfavorable opinion. Or you will get a wordless facial expression which might be described as !!! Or maybe ?????

This is not good Gallup country. It's very hard to pin a Frenchman to the wall with any of Gallup's usual: "Do you think Kennedy is doing a good job? Yes or no." He's not a yes or no fellow, your Frenchman. He's a comme-ci comme-ca guy, very much addicted to on the one hand and then again on the other. This raises hell with the statistics.

Still, 89 per cent of Frenchmen with an unfavorable opinion of American womanhood. Well, it's not good. I don't want to whitewash that percentage, girls. If a politician came up with only 11 per cent of the electorate on his side, he'd feel suicidal. But you must look at the bright side of things, girls. De Gaulle hasn't done so well himself in the public opinion polls with the French recently, if that's any comfort. He dropped 30 per cent in a couple of weeks not long ago. My own feeling is that the American women ought to counterattack. What do you think of Frenchmen? Come up with your own murderous statistic. The only trouble is that Frenchmen don't really give a damn what you think about them. The French have a superb contempt for popularity. They look on it as a sign of weakness, this craving to be

Only the Americans go around the world taking the people's pulses to find out whether they're liked or not liked. And practically no one but the Americans give a good hoot whether you like them or not. As a matter of fact, the French would like us better if we gave less of a damn whether they

The only trouble is that the French disdain for popularity is slowly changing, too. Gallup operates here now. So do several French research firms, all very new. # Of Steady Ache In

BALTIMORE (AP) — Southpaw ace Steve Barber of the Baltimore Orioles revealed Monday that he has been taking his regular turn with a standard second s with a steady ache in his left Western Md. 8, Lebanon Valley, Pa. 6 shoulder.

Barber, the hottest pitcher in the American League, may have to forgo his next turn, which has been coming every fourth day under Manager Billy Hitchcock's accelerated pitching plan for the 24-year-old ace.

"For the last four or five starts," Barber said, after losing a 2-0 heartbreaker to the New York Yankees Sunday, "my shoulder has hurt for about 10 minutes when I first start warming up. I can't even throw half speed at first, but the pain goese away by the time the game starts."

Hitchcock said he is going to a five-starter rotation, giving Barber an extra day's rest.

The left-hander has a 6-3 record, and a 2.11 earned run average. He has struck out 51 batters in 72 2-3 innings, and is the only American Leaguer to win six games.

Keyser, Romney And Ridgeley Complete Field

Six area high schools, including a pair of former double winners will compete in the sixth annual Beall Invitational Track and Field Meet, to be staged under the Beall Stadium lights tonight beginning at 7:30.

Host school Beall is the defending champion, and also won the title in 1959. Morgantown High School is the other two-time win ner entered, the West Virginia having won in 1960 and 1961.

Rounding out the six-team field are Allegany, winners of the first Beall Invitational in 1958, Keyser, Romney and Ridgeley.

The annual Beall Junior High Sprints and Relays will be run simultaneously with the "main bout," with junior high teams from Beall, Cresaptown, Keyser, Mt. Savage, Bruce and Allegany competing.

Easy 1962 Winner

Coach Jerry Calhoun's Beal thinlcads easily won last year's Invitational, piling up 108 points to finish far ahead of second place Morgantown with 62. Keyser ran third in 1962 with 38 points.

FARGO, N.D. (UPI) -Football coach Bob Danielson of North Dakota State University resigned Monday, effective July 1st. Danielson said he has been disappointed in not being able to win. He added that his wife suffered a heart attack five weeks ago and that he does not want to subject her to any further pres-sure of the kind that occurred at North Dakota State last fall.

Danielson was hanged in effigy on the Fargo campus after the Bison football team finished its worst season in history, losing all 10 games. The Bisons have lost 16 of their last 17 games.

Burned Lines Cause Major Power Failure

Source Of Trouble Is Unknown

Power service in a number of ed for more than an hour last night after two conductors on a 33.000 volt transmission line burned down on Kelly Boulevard.

Wires of the transmission line running from the River Plant of the Potomac Edison Company to the PE substation at Wallace and Magruder streets burned in two at 7:42 p. m.

Virtually all of North Cumberland, parts of the East Side and the Valley Road section were affected as the wires fell across the B & O tracks near the Kelly The cause of the trouble was not immediately known. Edward L. Ewald, district manager of the Potomac Edison Company, said all service was restored at about 9 p. m. as all available crews patrolled the area to restore service.
